

Westwood - Urban Renewal Project

The Westwood Urban Renewal Project is Australia's largest housing renewal development, currently being undertaken by Urban Pacific Limited in association with the South Australian Housing Trust. Jensen Planning + Design was involved with the project from its inception through to 2006, providing the full range of master planning, detailed design and statutory planning advice.

In 2006 the project received the national UDIA Award for Excellence in urban renewal, and has received many other State and National Awards in both planning and landscape development.

The project comprises the renewal of 5 large suburbs northwest of the City of Adelaide, and will ultimately see the construction of over 2,500 new homes and the refurbishment of almost 1,000 existing homes.

New and refurbished streets and parks, new community facilities, new employment opportunities and a range of social programs have all led to the huge success of this project in the market place, turning an area of social disadvantage and low market appeal into a more diverse community and providing a range of new employment and educational opportunities.
